

Wild Night at ACC

Opening act and fellow '80s rocker Tom Cochrane, meanwhile, just scored a Juno nomination this week for his new album, No Stranger, but seemed genuinely excited about making his Air Canada Centre debut last night with his four bandmates.

"Now if the Leafs could just get their s--t together," joked the 55-year-old singer-songwriter-guitarist, who grew up in Etobicoke.

Cochrane sure knew how to work the crowd, telling stories about meeting "strong women in Toronto," falling in love for the first time in Northern Ontario -- and getting the crowd to chime in on such hits as Sinking Like A Sunset, Big League, The Untouchable One, White Hot, and No Regrets.

He even joked about Nashville country act Rascal Flatts -- who play the ACC tonight -- making a huge hit out of his song, Life Is A Highway, for the second time in 2006, before ending his set with it.
